

Event-Driven State Machine Sample

This application reacts to external and user-generated events.

Each screen or operating mode is represented by a state.

An event triggers movement from one state to another state.

Examples of events include click, submit, timeout, and cancel.

The model should emphasize State and Event as the core concepts.